Message from the U.S. Ambassador to Denmark

investment in climate and clean energy solutions in U.S. history. Green technology, a sector for which Denmark is a frontrunner, is playing a critical role to enable the United States to reach our climate targets. Innovative U.S. technology can similarly equip Denmark in reaching its CO2 reduction goals.

There has never been a better outlook for Danish investment in the United States. I encourage Danish companies to take the next step in their U.S. goals and join me at this year's SelectUSA Investment Summit, May 1-4, at National Harbor, Maryland.

Alan Leventhal
U.S. Ambassador to Denmark

The United States and the Kingdom of Denmark have maintained a close, unbroken partnership grounded in shared ideals of democracy, human rights, and a rules-based world order since 1801. The strength of that relationship has always been important, but never more so than today. Russia's brutal and unprovoked invasion of Ukraine, the strategic challenge of China, and continued threat of climate change have brought our need to work together into even clearer focus. The business ties between our two countries, and the important work of AmCham Denmark, are a key element of our bilateral relationship and our ability to jointly address these and other global challenges successfully.

The Biden Administration has put combatting climate change at the center of its agenda. The Inflation Reduction Act (IRA) is driving the green transition in the United States and accelerating U.S. - Danish business ties. The IRA represents the most significant climate legislation to date and is the single, largest Message from the Danish Ambassador to the U.S.

Whilst the IRA has raised questions throughout Europe on protectionism and industrial policies, it also brings along a vast array of opportunities for our industries. As government, we help translate policies and framework conditions into tangible opportunities, but to succeed we need you, the industry, to drive these ambitious plans and pursue the opportunities it offers.

In September 2022 we had Danish Prime Minister Mette Frederiksen visit Washington D.C. to strengthen US-DK relations within the green sectors. I was pleased to see historic support from industry participating in the visit - including AmCham and our U.S. sister organization American-Danish Business Council.

As we move forward, I am assured we will continue to further build upon the many economic ties between Denmark and the United States. In that respect, I am thankful for the efforts of AmCham Denmark as a key enabler in facilitating the development of partnerships and the exchange of ideas between our two nations.

Christina Markus Lassen
Danish Ambassador to the U.S.

2022 was a year full of both challenges and triumphs that in many ways have tested our resilience and adaptability, but has also demonstrated our unwavering commitment to work together across the Atlantic.

The world economy continued to grapple with the many implications of the pandemic. At the same time, we witnessed a major destabilization in global security through Russia's unprovoked invasion of Ukraine that stands as one of the most devastating conflicts in recent history.

Here in the U.S., 2022 was another record year for US-DK trade relations. Danish export to the U.S. grew by almost 50% from an already record high level. 2022 also saw historical climate legislation from Congress - the Inflation Reduction Act.

Message from the Chair

It has truly been an honor to serve as AmCham's Chair during this past year. I am consistently in awe of the ability of the organization to be agile and adaptable, especially given the challenging circumstances of the past few years.

Looking ahead, AmCham is ready to engage with the new Danish government on ensuring Denmark continues to create a competitive investment environment in Denmark - one that encourages growth and job creation. Additionally, we will be working closely with U.S. Ambassador Leventhal and Danish Ambassador Lassen on strengthening our transatlantic ties.

Thanks to my fellow board members, whose leadership and proactive engagement are key factors in AmCham's current and future success. I would also like to acknowledge the valuable relationships we share with our partners and extend a special thanks to the U.S. Embassy and Danish Foreign Ministry for their invaluable contributions.

And, above all, I would like to thank you, our members, for your continued support. It is vital to have a strong collective voice for international business, and with your continued participation, AmCham is poised for an extremely bright future.

Nicolai Moresco
Chairman

Message from the EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

“AmCham delivered one of its strongest programs of value-added events in its history.”

Welcome to AmCham's 2023 Yearbook & Membership Directory.

This past year, AmCham delivered one of its strongest programs of value-added events in its history and made significant progress in the development of our Voice for International Business. No other non-governmental business organization in Denmark has this niche focus, which makes us unique and relevant for key decision makers.

This publication is rich with examples of the access and accomplishments that took place during 2022. Our efforts took many forms, including policy-driven meetings with key government and political stakeholders; inspiring sessions with international thought leaders; and top-notch promotion and networking opportunities for our members.

In all, the AmCham team delivered more than 50 value added events, which enabled us to engage 85% of our member companies. I am particularly proud of the success of AmCham's new Leadership Mentoring Program, which is unique in its ability to deliver cross-industry mentoring opportunities for our patron members.

On a personal note, I would like to acknowledge all the valuable relationships we enjoy with our members and partners and thank them for their cooperation and engagement this past year. I also want to thank AmCham's staff and Board of Directors, whose enthusiasm and drive enable us to make the progress we continue to make each year.

Finally, a very special thanks to our Elite Partners for their support in making this year's publication a reality.

AmCham Connections Across the Globe

AmCham Denmark is a member of the global AmCham Network - a network of AmChams in more than 115 countries worldwide, all of which are accredited by the U.S. Chamber. Our network is an important asset to us, our members and our stakeholders. Therefore we forge strong relationships, particularly with the AmChams in Europe, the umbrella organization for directors AmChams throughout Europe.

Accredited by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, AmCham Denmark is part of a global network of AmChams present in 117 countries.

The U.S. Chamber is the world's largest business organization representing companies of all sizes across every sector of the economy. For more than 100 years, the Chamber has advocated for pro-business policies that help businesses create jobs and grow the economy.

As a member, AmCham Denmark benefits from innumerable services and privileges from the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.
